City Managership Is Beaten in L. R.

Home Rule Proposal Goes Down on Light Vote, 2,022 to 1,607

LITTLE ROCK—Home Rule was defeated in Little Rock's special general election Tuesday.

Balloting was very light, the vote being 1,607 for the proposal and 2,022 against.

By their vote the electors have declined to authorize a charter providing for a commission-city manager form of government to be substituted, with the approval of the people, for the present mayor-aldermanic form of government. Eight precincts voted for the measure and 15 against.

Under Act 311 of the 1931 General Assembly, the issue may not be brought up again until a year has elapsed. Thus, the way is clear for R. E. Overman, Democratic nominee for mayor, to take office following the city general election next April.

The Crime Career of 'Baby Face' Nelson

Pink-checked and blue-eyed Lester Gillis looked little like a hand in the making, the "Baby Face" Nelson of a few years later, a No. 1 Public Enemy, when Chicago police caught him with the goods, a stolen auto, when he was only 16, in 1922.

Despite the pleas of his mother, the youthful lawbreaker was sentenced to St. Charles, Ill., boys' school, where he was twice returned for parole violations, though he was a model inmate while in prison, once acting as "monitor" over 75 boys.

Lester Gillis was freed from the reformatory in 1926. For five years he evaded police notice. Then, as "Baby Face" George Nelson, he was arrested in 1931 for robbery of the Hillside, Ill., bank. Convicted, he was given a year to life sentence.

A few months later Nelson was taken from prison to court to face a second bank robbery trial, for the Itasca, Ill., holdup. Once more he was given a year to life. Embittered, the chameleon-appearing hand definitely was transformed into a desperado.

2 Federal Agents Killed, But They "Get" Their Man

Nelson's Body Found a Day Late in an Illinois Field

12 BULLET WOUNDS

Dillinger Gangster Shot to Pieces in Clash With Officers

WASHINGTON—(AP)—"Baby Face" Nelson was found dead Wednesday afternoon in Miles Center, Ill., Attorney General Cummings announced late Wednesday afternoon.

The attorney general said Nelson was shot in Tuesday's gun-battle at Barrington, Ill., by Inspector Samuel P. Cowley and Special Agent Herman E. Hollis, both of whom were also killed.

Nelson's body was found in a ditch, clad only in his underclothing.

The body had 12 bullet wounds.

Cowley Dies

CHICAGO—(AP)—Samuel P. Cowley, one of the government's ace man-hunters, died early Wednesday from bullet-wounds inflicted in a gun battle with George (Baby Face) Nelson, in which another federal man was killed.

Cowley died in an Elgin (Ill.) hospital as the government threw all its power into the hunt for Nelson, one of the remaining members of the Dillinger gang.

Herman E. Hollis, the other federal agent, was killed instantly.

CHICAGO—(AP)—George (Baby Face) Nelson's machine guns avenged the deaths of his colleagues in crime, John Dillinger and "Pretty Boy" Floyd, in a battle with United States Department of Justice agents here late Tuesday.

Herman E. Hollis, 26, who assertedly killed Dillinger as he walked out of a picture show last July, sprawled to the pavement, his body riddled with bullets, and Samuel P. Cowley, 35, chief assistant to Melvin H. Purvis of the local Justice Department Bureau, fell wounded critically, with little hope of recovery.

Agents Mowed Down

The gun battle was brief but furious. Purvis said his office had a "tip" that an automobile, known to have been in Nelson's possession, had been seen in Barrington. A squad of agents was sent to the suburb. The desperadoes' car passed the agent's machine. They spotted it, swung around in pursuit. The fugitive car halted. A woman and two men got out. The agents stopped their car, advanced toward the trio with drawn guns. Suddenly from under his clothing, one of the men whipped a machine gun and bullets spat. Cowley and Hollis fell as agents answered the fire.

The gangster trio dove into the agent's automobile and roared away in a bullet-splattered wake. It was believed that the woman, supposed to have been Nelson's wife, was struck.

Hollis was dead when taken to a hospital but Cowley was conscious. Cowley had a name that was as feared by the underworld as was his superior, Purvis.

Calls for Purvis

"Did you get Purvis?" Cowley asked. "I must talk to Purvis before I die."

Purvis was soon at his side and came out of the operating room to say:

"Baby Face Nelson was the driver of the car. The woman we believe to be Mrs. Betty Gillis, his wife. We're not certain of the identity of the other man."

Then to additional federal agents and police who rushed to the hospital he said:

"Now go out and get them."

Then Purvis went back to his friend. Police nets were spread about the city and a description of the fugitive

Returning to Joliet, Ill., prison, with two long terms facing him, Nelson showed a gun against the side of his guard, forced him to unlock the handcuffs, and then made his escape. Still police did not rate him a big shot. Then he joined the Dillinger gang.

Nelson was with Dillinger when federal agents clumsily sprung a trap on the gang at the Little Bohemia, Wis., resort. The outlaws shot their way out of the snare. Nelson, escaping alone through the dense woods, met Federal Agent Carter Baum, and killed him.

Nelson hid for several days in the shack of Ollie Catfish, an Indian, keeping his host prisoner, then escaped through the cunning of hunters. Then began the relentless hunt, with federal men ordered to "take no chances" in capturing the killer.

Stepping Up Local Tax Hurt Schools

Wrecked by Difference Between 18 Local and 3 Mill State Tax

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—The foundation for the breakdown of the state's common school system was laid in the adoption in 1916 of an amendment permitting the voting of a greater local millage tax, State Education Commissioner W. E. Phipps said Wednesday.

He said this in a statement which will be submitted to the State Education Board to become a part of its recommendation to the tri-committee on school affairs.

The foundation for this breakdown was broken, he said, by the adoption in 1926 of an amendment permitting the levying of an 18-mill local school tax, while leaving the state common school tax at 3 mills.

According to the investigations and calculations made by a group of scientists at Long Beach, Calif., "Old Satan" has reached the ripe age of 97 years. The python is a non-poisonous species, and in his native country is considered a food delicacy.

His skin, when properly treated, is used for the manufacture of clothing, gloves and bags. The principal item of diet for "Old Satan" is chicken, and he shows a marked preference for white meat. Snakes, however, have a most disconcerting indifference toward all food.

They will sometimes sulk, and go for days without eating anything, but apparently suffer no ill effects from their fasting.

Snakes, according to Mr. Clay, seldom die from natural causes. Were it not for their cannibalistic traits which cause them to destroy each other at times, and the constant warfare with mankind, the snake tribes would increase at an alarming rate.

One can learn a whole lot about snakes by talking to Henry Clay.

By Leonard Ellis

On exhibition at the Big Four museum, South Walnut street, is "Old Satan," one of the largest snakes ever brought to this country.

He is 27 feet long and measures 22 inches around the body. He weighs close to 300 pounds, and has been on exhibition in all the principal cities of the United States.

Old Satan is a python. His native habitat is India, but he is now a seasonal trouper, and boasts of a long moving picture record.

Old Satan has appeared in such movie productions as "Trader Horn," Frank Buck's "Bring 'Em Back Alive," and several of the "Tarzan" pictures.

For 15 years he has traveled about the country, appearing in the principal cities and before scientific bodies and schools. He has been viewed by so many of the curious that he wears at all times an expression of utter boredom.

No less interesting than "Satan" himself, is his keeper and faithful attendant, Henry Clay, who has a surprisingly wide knowledge of snakes, having spent the greater part of his life among them.

Mr. Clay carries records and reports from scientific bodies and organizations attesting to the authentic-

Bass' Hearing Is Set for Saturday

Attorneys Claim Arkansas Convict's Crime Occurred in Missouri

PINE BLUFF, Ark.—(AP)—Circuit Judge T. J. Parham Wednesday set for next Saturday morning the hearing on a petition to free Dr. Andrew J. Bass, former wealthy Columbia (Mo.) dentist, from a life sentence in connection with a reputed $200,000 insurance slaying in 1930.

Attorneys petitioned the court for a writ of habeas corpus, contending Bass is illegally held in Arkansas because the crime to which he pleaded guilty was not committed in this state.

Bass pleaded guilty to the slaying of Robert William Pearman, whose body was found near Gravelle, a few miles south of the Missouri line.

Europe Not Likely to Join Japanese

U. S. Isn't Worried About French and Italian Navy Decision

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—American quarters here Tuesday night were confident Japan would get no support from France or Italy in her denunciation of the 1922 Washington naval treaty. American delegates to tri-power naval conversations here, which have reached the point of break-up over Japan's insistence on naval parity, understood both powers would back Great Britain and the United States in placing the responsibility for denunciation entirely on Japan.

Tokyo's request for French and Italian support was made informally some time ago. The formal request was made today. Britain and America, too, have been approached, but were cool to the proposal.

Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto, Japanese delegate, who accompanied Ambassador Tameo Matsudaira to the Foreign Office, indicated that Japan would compromise on many points of naval limitation if only the United States and Great Britain granted her naval equality.

Mrs. E. A. N. Heiskell Member of Distinguished Southern Family

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—Mrs. Eliza Ayer Netherland Heiskell, mother of N. J. Heiskell, editor and publisher of the Arkansas Gazette at Little Rock, and a member of one of Tennessee's oldest and most distinguished families died at her home here Monday.

Although she was 93, Mrs. Heiskell retained all her faculties to the end of her life. She had been ill about a month.

In the last years of her life, after she had reached the age of 90, Mrs. Heiskell's birthdays were observed with a reception at her home here. These birthday gatherings were attended by members of her family and friends.

Mrs. Heiskell was the daughter of John Netherland of Rogersville, Tenn., an orator, statesman and patriot, and a leader of the Wig party when Andrew Johnson led the Democracy of East Tennessee. John Netherland was the Wig candidate for governor in 1850 against John G. Harris.

Her mother was Susan Coffin McKimney, daughter of John Augustine McKimney, a noted lawyer of East Tennessee, and Eliza Ayer McKimney.

Mrs. Heiskell was born October 31, 1841. She attended Ingleside school near Baltimore, where she was educated by Miss Maria Gibson, until she was called home by the illness of her mother. She was married on October

Baptist Education House Progresses

Foundation Nearly Completed—Many Good Gifts Assist Work

Many examples of giving have been illustrated since the work on the new education building of First Baptist church began, according to the Rev. Wallace R. Rogers, pastor.

This giving has not been among the membership alone, but from members of other churches over the city, and non-church members. The motto of the building campaign is, "We Build As We Pay" and has been adhered to strictly. The work is progressing almost miraculously; the foundation is nearing completion and the frame work will soon start. Many men, who are unemployed, are giving their labor; others, who have time are paying for men to work. The women of the church have served dinner free, to the men, since the building started, and have refused to stop serving as long as the free labor continues.

"A little child shall lead them" was impressively illustrated Sunday morning by a very small girl from the beginner's department. This little girl went to the pastor after Sunday school and carefully unwrapped something she gave to him, saying in her own childish language that she wanted to pay for a brick in the new Sunday School Building. The spirit of giving, doing and having faith seems to have enveloped all. But why not? Are we not promised strength sufficient to remove mountains if only we have faith as large as a grain of mustard seed?

Medicine Has Reduced Infant Death Rate

There was a time when between 250 and 300 babies out of every 1000 born in certain large cities of the United States died before they were one year old. With the advance of modern medical science these rates have been greatly reduced, so that the average rate for 1933 cities in 1933 was 57.1.

Since the previous year, cities of Texas and South Dakota have been added to the birth registration area. If only those cities which were in the birth registration area in 1932 are compared with those for 1933, the rate for last year is 55.9—the lowest ever recorded in the history of this country.

This is highly significant, because the period was one of financial emergency and financial depression, with many people on relief.

Furthermore, health authorities believe that the infant mortality rate is a good measure of medical and public health effort. It means that, even during the financial depression, medical and public health officials have held their own in the battle against disease.

It is of great significance to realize that Portland, Ore.; Seattle, Wash., and Oakland, Calif., have for several years been among the first with the lowest infant mortality rates. In 1933 the rate for Portland was 33, and for Seattle and Oakland, 38.

Smaller cities, such as Fort Wayne, Ind.; Long Beach, Calif.; and Tacoma, Wash., report rates of 33 and 35. Among cities of 50,000 to 100,000 population, Berkeley, Calif., and Newton, Mass., have death rates of 21, and San Jose, Calif., a rate of 22.

In contrast with these enviable records, Memphis, Dallas, and Atlanta have the highest rates among cities of over 250,000; namely, 112, 86, and 83; El Paso, San Antonio, and Chattanooga have the three highest among cities from 100,000 to 250,000; namely, 125, 113, and 89. And Charleston, W. Va., Montgomery, Ala., and Huntington, W. Va., have the highest rates for cities of from 50,000 to 100,000; namely, 131, 110, and 106.

The lowest rate among the 10 largest cities in the country was 44. This rate was reported for Cleveland and St. Louis. Chicago, which had the lowest rate in 1932, and Philadelphia tied for third place with rates of 49.

But all large cities of the United States had rates under 70, and the average is about 56.

The infant mortality rate is a reflection not only of the medical and public health care available in a community, but also of the social and economic status, the climatic conditions, and similar factors.

Nevertheless, among the factors of greatest importance is the provision of a clean, carefully controlled food supply. Infant mortality rates have been lowered primarily by cutting down the number of deaths from dysentery and from diarrheal disorders, due to infected water and infected milk.

The manner in which American cities have maintained their wonderful record during the period of financial depression is a further testimony to the self-sacrificing character of medical and public health efforts.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

Some Persons Seek to Evade Happiness

Are you the type who revels in happiness, or one who, when happiness comes can't face it?

If you get a wish and the sky showers some particular blessing, are you thankful? Do you hang the new dress up where you can look at it the first second of waking and the last thing at night? Does it change your whole personality like sunshine breaking through clouds?

Or, once the dress is yours, do you instantly turn to something else you crave, and instead of being jubilant, stay sour because that other something is not forthcoming?

Children are divided into such classes, just as grown-ups are.

We are children. Children are "us." There is little difference. Either they respond to a windfall happily, or they stay unhappy because there is always something else to worry about.

Temperament Makes Individual

Not only in material things, but in all the small daily events that make life, does this little matter of temperament affect the individual.

There is an enormous phalanx of people who can't stand pleasure. Something in their minds refuses it the minute it is theirs.

A day or two ago a child had a birthday party.

The presents and games and a general good time.

That night the little girl was tired, of course, but it would hardly account for the fact that she cried herself sick because her little brother got into her bureau drawer and crumpled her plaid dress into a ball. She said it was the very one she wanted to wear to school next morning.

She couldn't lie and think, "How lovely to have the new book, and games and news socks and the cute little purse." They were out of the picture entirely.

This is the sort of stuff that characterizes the born worrier.

Enemy to Health.

The mind flies off to a cloudy realm of foreboding, fear, frustration and what not.

Once a nerve specialist said to a patient: "I can't do anything for you. It's your mind, not your nerves. If you had all the wealth in the world, the best family on earth, health and everything else you would still worry about your self same. Your disposition is almost the only enemy you have to conquer good health."

The brooding habit in children, I believe, sometimes begins with observing parents who worry too much. Apprehension is contagious. But that certain ones simply "can't stand happiness" is as true as gospel. With such ones, indeed, it is often the case that the more they have the more they worry.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

ANY HOLLYSTER, pretty and 20, sells the family and to pay debts of her father, now dead. On the day of the sale a young man, stopped by motor trouble, comes to her home to telephone. After he leaves Ann finds a blue vase missing and in its place a note signed "P.C." and "Sue."

Ann gets work as a librarian and becomes friendly with SARAH KENT, also employed at the library. She meets TONY MICKLE, commercial artist, and is attracted by him, though Sarah warns her that Tony is flakey and irresponsible.

The chief librarian sends Ann to rich old PETER KENDALL, factory owner, to obtain permission to open a branch library in Kendallwood, factory community. Ann is unsuccessful. Returning, her car almost collides with a roadster driven by a young man. He is the same young man who stopped at Ann's home in Georgia. They talk and Ann discloses her failure to interview the factory owner.

Later word comes that Peter Kendall has agreed to the opening of the library.

Ann realizes she is falling in love with Tony.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VI

TONY and Ann became engaged the following Saturday. Lying in the sand, his blue eyes warmly approved Ann's firmly molded, healthfully tanned young body. Tony said, "It looks as though that contract is a 'chuck. And a very good thing for us."

"Why?"

"Little nut," said Tony, "pretending not to understand. You know we're getting married, don't you?"

Ann turned and met his challenging eyes. Her happy laugh was smothered suddenly as Tony pulled her close in his arms, kissed her lips, eyes, hair and soft throat.

She drew away, leaping to her feet. "Tony, we're on the beach!"

"I don't care," he said. "Besides we're engaged, aren't we?"

"Race you to the point and decide on the way," Ann said breathlessly.

They reached the point. Ann was more breathless, her heart pounding joyously. Tony, not winded at all, gazed down at her eagerly, expectantly.

"Is it 'yes'?" Then, without waiting for her answer, he crushed her to him again.

"It's 'yes,'" Ann said simply.

They sat down on the sand, her head against his shoulder. She was a little sobered in spite of the joyous excitement.

She tried to explain some of this to him, but it was impossible with his lips an ardent barrier against her words.

Tony said frankly, "I never thought I was a marrying man. With so many marriages going on the rocks it seemed a lot of trouble and waste of time to tie yourself up with a wedding and then go to the expense and trouble of having somebody cut it for you. See?"

ANN didn't exactly see. Tony didn't believe marriages could last. Perhaps not even theirs! The thought made her a little sick. "Maybe ours will be different," Tony conceded as the silence grew.

Later, eating dinner in the pavilion, the first little rift in her happiness came. Ann became conscious of the girl seated at a table near by.

When the girl and her escort arose to leave the girl stopped behind Tony, placing a hand on his shoulder. "Surprise?" she drawled.

Tony and Ann moved rhythmically, easily on the crowded floor.

"Hello," said Tony. He introduced Ann to the girl—Eileen Wallace—and her escort.

The name meant nothing to Ann. But she was amazed to feel a little surge of anger when Tony reached up to take the girl's hand and continued to hold it.

While Ann was talking to the girl's escort, she heard Eileen Wallace say in a low voice, "You promised to call. You didn't."

"Busy as the devil—all day," Tony answered.

"Yes, I know."

When they were gone Ann asked, "Who is she, Tony?"

"I thought I introduced you. Eileen Wallace."

Ann, nettled, said, "So you did. But an introduction doesn't give one the picture."

"Oh, you want a character sketch," Tony said easily. "Well, then—'girl-about-town' nicely sums it up. Look here, Ann, you're not going jealous on me, are you? How I hate a jealous woman!"

"No," said Ann. "I promise I won't. That is, I won't show it. It's showing it that is so horrid. I'd never be a show."

TONY said, "You're a little philosopher, Ann."

He reached over and caught her hand, gripping it hard. "We may row like the devil, but I'll always love you."

"No," said Ann. "Rows are out. They finished the celebration by dancing. What matter if they were part of a motley crowd? They were alone, Tony and Ann, clinging closely to each other, moving rhythmically, easily on the crowded floor.

Loving each other so, they couldn't ever really row. Ann told herself. Things, people, couldn't matter—people like Eileen with her predatory eyes.

At 12 o'clock Ann kicked off her pumps and slipped into her sheath-like gown.

"Lo," Sarah said, coming in and tossing her hat aside. "Well, wasn't this a day? I don't know when I've seen such a mob wanting books. Oh, Ann, I have a message for you! I met Tony and he asked me to tell you something important had come up and he couldn't make it tonight. Said

"How you can keep up with this!" Sarah grumbled sleepily, as Ann crawled into bed, "I don't see."

"I won't much longer," Ann launched her bombshell, "I'm getting married."

"Ann, you're not!" Sarah was wide awake now. She reached for the bed lamp and flooded the room with a soft light. Ann's luminous eyes met hers.

"No need to ask who the lucky devil is. Are you sure? Tony's an awful risk."

"He's going to settle down. Wait and see."

"Oh, yeah! Well, when do I kiss the bridegroom?"

"Soon," Ann said vaguely, remembering Tony had said, "Soon."

SARAH, not too optimistically, waited for signs of Tony's "settling down." They were not forthcoming. Tony went blithely and gaily on his way.

Ann explained loyally that Tony had to have recreation. He was working himself to death over his new contract, trying hard to get ahead.

But September passed, October waned, November came and went, and it was December. Still Ann was no ring.

She told herself she must be sensible. How could the down payment ever be managed when Tony was so extravagant about flowers, dinners, and dancing?

Tonight, for instance, they were planning to dance at the Blue Jug. Eileen Wallace's orchestra was playing there and, no matter how extravagant, Tony would not miss his favorite.

"Lo," Sarah said, coming in and tossing her hat aside. "Well, wasn't this a day? I don't know when I've seen such a mob wanting books. Oh, Ann, I have a message for you! I met Tony and he asked me to tell you something important had come up and he couldn't make it tonight. Said

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

Store Up Beauty.

Even the woman who ordinarily has little interest in make-up and the intricacies of beauty for formal occasions finds herself thrilled with the idea of looking especially lovely during the holiday season. December is the month of parties, balls, get-togethers and other gala festivities, and the girl who has thought about her personal appearance beforehand generally is the one who has the most fun.

No beauty defect can be cured in a few hours, or a few treatments. If you really want to look your best when you step out to a Christmas ball, begin today to get your hands, complexion and hair in flawless condition.

First of all, admit that beauty thrives on fresh air, exercise and enough sleep. You know perfectly well that you won't get much rest during holiday week, and you'll have little time for exercise. Obviously, then, you will have to store up enough energy and resistance right now to see you through exciting days and nights filled with parties and dances.

It's a trite phrase and you're probably bored with it, but, for the sake of your appearance and disposition, please do your shopping early and in as leisurely a manner as you possibly can. Don't get too excited at the mere mention of Christmas. Save your energy until it actually is time to start singing carols. Get at least eight hours sleep each night. Eat sensible food. You'll eat too many sweets during the holidays, and the only way to be sure that your skin will withstand so sudden a change in diet is to be in perfect physical condition.

177 Rail Crossings Cut Out by State

10 More Highway Hazards to Be Eliminated Next Year

LITTLE ROCK—Records of the state Highway Department show that 177 grade crossings were eliminated in Arkansas between January 1, 1927, and June 30, 1934, and that the 1934-35 construction program calls for elimination of 10 crossings.

Highway officials expressed hope the proposal that the PWA provide funds for a national grade crossing elimination program, will be adopted and that part of the funds will be allotted to Arkansas.

From 1927 to June 30 of this year, 152 grade crossings were eliminated by relocation of roads, and 25 were eliminated by construction of underpasses or overpasses. The 1934-35 program provides for relocation of eight highways to eliminate crossings, and building of two structures over or under tracks.

There are approximately 400 grade crossings in Arkansas, but many of them are on second class roads. From 50 to 75 crossings remain on main highways.

"We are eliminating the high-speed crossings, those on the principal highways, as rapidly as possible and we hope the federal program is approved," highway officials said.

Fascist Slush Fund Uncovered in East

Mysterious $75,000 Given Wall Street Clerk for "Mobilization"

NEW YORK—(AP)—A statement that Gerald P. MacGuire, the Wall Street bond salesman whom Gen. Smedley D. Butler charged with urging him to head a Fascist "putsch" in the United States, handled $75,000 for "unexplained" purposes while on a salary of $432 a month was issued Sunday night by the Congressional Committee on Un-American Activities.

The committee said MacGuire received from Robert Sterling Clark, New York, broker, approximately $75,000 "which MacGuire reluctantly admitted on being confronted with the evidence."

"Whether there was more, and how much, the committee does not yet know," the statement added.

The committee made its report on MacGuire's financial transactions, vice chairman, after a thorough questioning of the bond salesman and an examination of bank records.

"You can't get away from it, somebody is trying to shield somebody on something that looks rotten, and honest people don't do that," Dickstein said.

"If the committee felt that this was a publicity stunt, it would not have wasted its time and money and patience. The testimony given before it was under oath, and this statement contains only what could be verified and would stand in a court of law."

Power Companies to Challenge TVA

Government Competition Is Unconstitutional, They Declare

NEW YORK—(AP)—Thomas M. McCarter, president of the Edison Electric Institute, Sunday night announced legal findings of the opinion that the Tennessee Valley Authority was unconstitutional and intimated a supreme court test by utilities companies of the government's vast hydro-electric project in the South.

"I hope to have an early opportunity to lay this whole matter before the president of the United States," Mr. Carter said.

In a statement issued through the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, of which he is head, McCarter said he had retained Newton D. Baker of Cleveland, and James M. Beck, former representative from Pennsylvania to study legality of legislation affecting the electric industry.

Their opinions, given jointly, hold that legislation relating to the Tennessee Valley project and the government's plan of action in its development "is palpably unconstitutional."

A Song of Thanksgiving

Let us be thankful
For this fair country
Grand and free,
For every blade of grass
And every fruitful tree;
For "rocks and rills,"
For "woods and temples hills,"
For things beautiful and divine;
Let us most thankful be.
Let us be thankful:
For home and friends,
And loved ones true;
For every thoughtful deed
And kindly act they do;
For comfort given in sorrow,
The promise of tomorrow;
For life with all its burdens
Let us be thankful, too.
Let us be thankful:
For daily bread,
And things that cheer;
For countless blessings we enjoy
Throughout the passing year;
For faith, and hope, and love,
For God and heaven above,
And strength along life's way.
Let us be thankful every day.

New England Courtship Topic of "The Pursuit of Happiness"

Francis Lederer, one of the hand-somest and most talented of our recent acting importations, finally has the opportunity to display his actual acting talent in "The Pursuit of Happiness," the adaptation of the Broadway bundling hit, which stars him and features Joan Bennett, Charlie Ruggles and Mary Boland. It comes to the Screen Friday night for a 11 o'clock preview only.

Cast as the shy but charming Hessian soldier who deserts the British ranks because the colonists promise him "the pursuit of happiness," Lederer plays with grace and lightness the role of one of the most appealing romantic comedy lovers the screen has presented in some time.

With Lissane Joan Bennett cast as the pretty Puritan and the object of his affection, Lederer goes through his courtship and his first amazing initiation to the custom of "bundling," or courting the lady in bed fully clothed, with such obvious pleasure and freshness that the first night audience roared its pleasure at his performance.

In the supporting cast of this excellently written, beautifully directed and acted comedy, are Charlie Ruggles and Mary Boland, who impersonate the anxious parents with consummate ability.

For Thanksgiving day (Thursday and Friday) Manager Swanke announces Ronald Colman with Loretta Young in "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back," a Mickey Mouse comedy; "Orphans Benefit" and the latest News complete the program. Sunday prices will prevail.

Motor Company Manager Recognizes Him as Former Salesman

LITTLE ROCK, (AP)—A man, apparently an amnesia victim, who walked into police headquarters and asked aid in determining his identity, Wednesday was identified as Joe B. Monday, of Memphis.

The identification was made by Clarence Barbee, district officials of an automobile company, who said Monday worked in a Memphis dealer's establishment and was a former automobile salesman here.

At 1961, to Carrie White Heiskell, at that time a captain in the Confederate army. His father, in 1810 founded the Knoxville Register, an influential paper of the day.

Carrie Heiskell's elder brother, Joseph B., the father of the late Judge F. H. Heiskell of Memphis, became a member of the Confederate Congress at the beginning of the War Between the States. Carrie Heiskell became the first man in Hawkins county to enlist under the Stars and Bars. He helped to raise the first company in the country, Company K, Nineteenth Tennessee Infantry, and became captain of the company. The regiment won distinction time and time again in the Army of Tennessee. He was colonel of the regiment at the surrender.

After the war, Mr. and Mrs. Heiskell moved to Memphis where they had been preceded by Mr. Heiskell's brother Joseph Brown Heiskell. They immediately became a part of the community and let their efforts to the rebuilding of the city and the state.

In 1870 in the first triumph of the people over Reconstruction leaders, Carrie W. Heiskell was named circuit judge. In the same election, the late Luke E. Wright was named attorney general.

Judge Heiskell served as judge until 1878, when he was appointed city attorney, a difficult and responsible position in the government in those days of the yellow fever when the city's credit was gone and the fortunes of the community were at low ebb.

Judge Heiskell died July 25, 1923, the highest ranking Confederate officer in Memphis.

"The cars stopped on the northwest highway about 500 feet west of state Road No. 63," he said. "I sensed that it was a case of police authorities affix hoodlums."

"As the agents advanced with drawn guns, I pulled out my rifle. When the shooting started, I started firing at the desperados. There were about 15 people getting in my line of fire and I had to stop."

"The people in the other machine got out too, swinging a machine gun, its muzzle throwing lead. Then, with agents lying on the ground they jumped into their machine and roared away."

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Death of Federal Agent H. E. Hollis and wounding of Agent Samuel P. Cowley in a gun fight with Lester M. Gillis, alias George (Baby Face) Nelson, at Barrington, Ill., was reported Tuesday night by Assistant Attorney General William Stanley.

"We had a house about 40 miles from Barrington under observation. Hollis and Cowley were on their way there when they met the car carrying several men, one of whom we believed was Nelson," Stanley said.

H. H. Clegg, an assistant director at the Division of Investigation, was ordered to Chicago. He will take charge of the investigation into the killing of Hollis and the wounding of Cowley.

El Dorado Club Is Cincinnati 'Farm'

Reds to Send 200 Young Players There for Spring Training

EL DORADO, Ark.—Following conferences with Milton Stock, representative of the Cincinnati Reds, officials of the El Dorado baseball club announced Tuesday that an agreement has been tentatively closed whereby El Dorado will become a farm for the Cincinnati National League club.

Two conferences were held here Saturday with Judge J. S. Brooks, president of the local club, and later with other leaders in the baseball club.

The contact will be drawn in Cincinnati and signed by officials of the club there and then forwarded here for signatures of local officials.

"Under terms of the agreement," Judge Brooks said, "the El Dorado Baseball association feels that we have a far better opportunity of giving El Dorado a winning club. This probable means that 200 young players will be sent here for spring training and this will be a Southwestern training camp. At the close of the season we are to deliver five of the best players developed during the year to the Reds. We retain the say in the management of all the affairs but through this working agreement the El Dorado association will get $300 monthly. One thing that has attracted the attention of the Cincinnati management was the excellent grandstand, ball yard and club house. The climate too had its effect."

Rate Reduction to Beat TVA Offered

Harvey Couch Makes Compromise Proposal at Jackson, Miss.

JACKSON, Miss.—(AP)—Under the threat of a possible invasion of Jackson by the Tennessee Valley Authority, the Mississippi Power and Light Company Mandat dangled before the City Commission Council a vision of five-cent bus fares and "substantial" electric rate reductions.

The proposals were made by Harvey C. Couch, utilities president, in the prolonged battle of the city to secure rate reductions. Officials previously announced that negotiations had been started with TVA authorities with a view to possible use of its cheap power.

Couch's offer was embodied in a statement which he read to the commission and in which he expressed hope that the rate matter could be settled satisfactory to all parties. He also indicated that the proposed five-cent bus fare, if and when adopted, would preserve the principle of the existing "bargain fare" allowed school children.

The hearing was closed officially by the mayor after hearing Couch and a lengthy detailed review of the entire rate controversy by Eugene Morse, city attorney.

The mayor said that the commission would study the data which it has assembled together with the offers made by the power company and arrive at a decision "at the earliest possible moment."

Clegg, one of the department's crack investigators, recently came back to Washington after working on the Stoll abduction case in Nashville, Tenn. He was in New York at the time of the arrest of Bruno Hauptmann, charged with the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby. He, too, was one of the federal agents who was at Spider Lake, Wis., when the Dillinger mob escaped from a federal net and killed Special Agent Baum.

Business Property Must Show Profit

Here Are Some Tips on Improvement on Commercial Locations

Is it useful, safe, efficient?

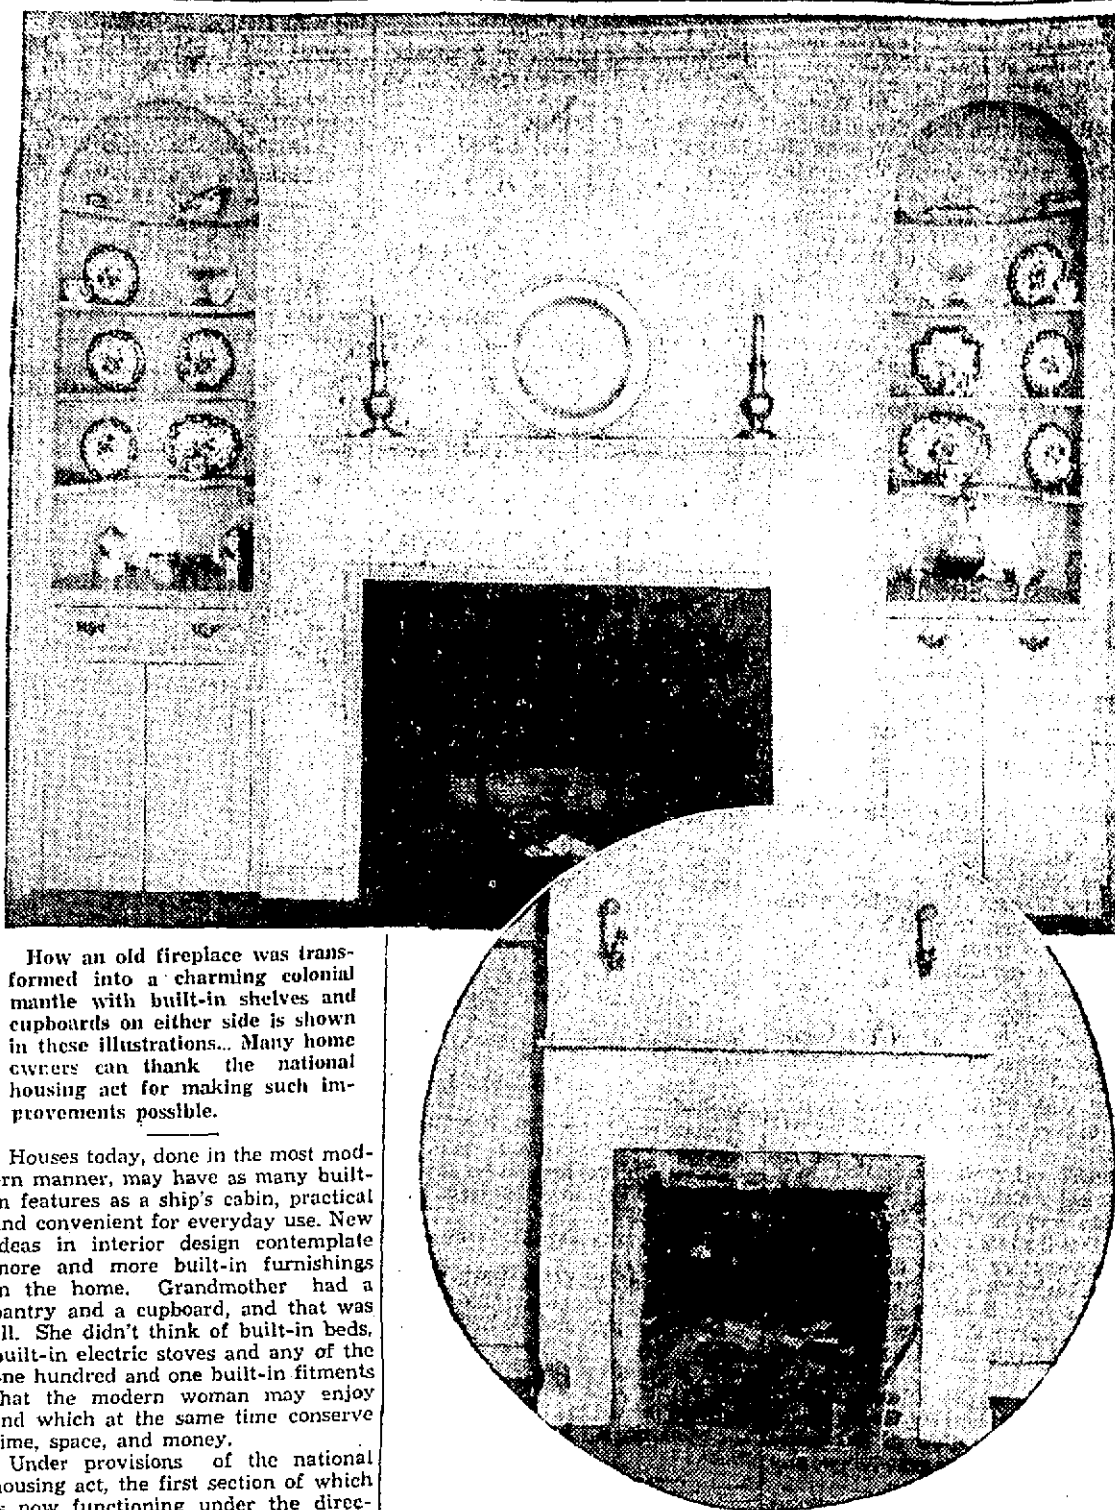

1. Rentable basement areas can be increased by rearranging service space, building new partitions, providing ventilation, finishing walls and floors, and installing new stairs.
2. Are maintenance shop and storage space convenient, well-lighted and properly equipped?
3. A direct entrance to the boiler room, a sidewalk lift, might improve the efficiency of your property. Walls and floors may be waterproofed—or hardening treatment applied to dusty cement surfaces.
4. Are walls clean—and is masonry carefully tuckpointed? If masonry is stained, it may be acid-washed or sand blasted, painted or whitewashed.
5. Roofs require watching—check the superstructure. Are sills and cornices weather-damaged? Are parapets and copings watertight? Are roof drains clogged? Are there leaks around skylight or penthouse? Is all sheet metal work sound, secure and well painted? Neglect results in costly repair bills later on.
6. Is your building safe for tenants, customers or employees? Check up on exterior steps, damaged sidewalks, walls, fences and jagged curbs. Protect area ways with guard rails. Provide storage for all or gasoline. Are there emergency aid rooms and safety devices on machinery?

7. Do windows rattle or leak? Perhaps they need new putty. Replace broken glass. Weather-stripping helps prevent loss of heat—and ease window operation. Larger windows add to efficiency and appearance.
8. Is the fire hazard great? Check on rusty fire escapes. Do exits comply with the law? Fire pumps should be tested, and fire alarm and sprinkler systems installed.
9. Comfort of employees has a direct effect on your efficiency and speed of operation. Perhaps fatigue and inconvenience can be eliminated.
10. New paint—Properly applied, paint can improve sanitation, eliminate eyestrain, stimulate worker morale and pride in surroundings.
11. New plumbing—adequate rest rooms, well-lighted and ventilated pay for themselves many times over in worker contentment. Have your entire plumbing system checked. Faulty plumbing leads to building decay.
12. New electric equipment—Replace obsolete lighting fixtures and see that there are ample outlets for your employees' needs. Unnecessary glare or inadequate lighting often results in impaired eyesight and poor workmanship.
13. New heating equipment may prevent wasted fuel—as well as stimulate worker morale. Have boilers, flues, water tubes and smoke flues checked. Steam valves, pumps and ejectors may need repacking. Install draft, steam and temperature control devices. Improve radiation system.

A nickel isn't supposed to be as good as a dollar, but it goes to church more often.

Home Comforts Easily Built to Any House

How an old fireplace was transformed into a charming colonial mantle with built-in shelves and cupboards on either side is shown in these illustrations. Many home owners can thank the national housing act for making such improvements possible.

Houses today, done in the most modern manner, may have as many built-in features as a ship's cabin, practical and convenient for everyday use. New ideas in interior design contemplate more and more built-in furnishings in the home. Grandmother had a pantry and a cupboard, and that was all. She didn't think of built-in beds, built-in electric stoves and any of the one hundred and one built-in fittings that the modern woman may enjoy and which at the same time conserve time, space, and money.

Under provisions of the national housing act, the first section of which is now functioning under the direction of the federal housing administration, money is available through local financial institutions approved by the government, to the interior of the house as well as the exterior. All built-in furniture is considered immovable under terms of the national housing act and loans up to $200 can be made for the sole purpose of constructing built-in house-hold equipment, if such is desirable.

In the ultra modern houses most of the furniture is built in. In the most extremely modern house ever designed every article of furniture is built in—even pneumatic beds. While this is impractical at the present time for the average home, it seems to be the goal to which built-in interiors are rapidly tending.

Certain built-in fittings are much more practical than time-honored relics, and may be achieved with a minimum of labor and expense, plenty of planning and lots of paint in the hands of an artistic interior designer.

Any plan to completely revolutionize the interior of the house by discarding much of the furnishings now in use and replacing them with built-in features should be considered first from the standpoint of utility, then from locality and finally from practicality.

Living rooms can be made to yield more space for living by a variety of built-in features. Bookcases may sink right into the wall, taking up no floor space, and may be so placed that they will be both ornamental and useful. In the same room the fireplace may be an electric one and recede into the wall, as do the bookcases. An all-purpose desk with drawers may be built in one corner, or elsewhere as the space lends itself, and a decorative cabinet may be added. In the modern manner, and surprisingly inexpensively, almost all the living room fittings can be built in. Rooms so designed are particularly appealing to the persons who must live in small quarters, because they release so much space and yet offer all needed equipment for putting things away.

A "bunk bed" is associated with a camp or a ship. Not so in the mind of the up-to-date interior architect. He uses it as a very exquisite part of the bedroom and makes it comfortable, simple in construction and, again, inexpensive. On each side of the bed may be shelves designed to harmonize with the bed and ready to serve as night or utility tables. Underneath the bed very deep drawers can be built extending the length of the bed, and at the head of the bed underneath the reading table book shelves may utilize the space, making one compact unit of the bed, chest, table and bookcase.

A window seat may complete this practical corner and the cabinet-maker may even construct one of those novel chairs with a small table pulling out magically from somewhere under one chair-arm. Such chair and table are practical in small all-purpose spaces such as the modern bed-living room in the apartment house or small dwelling.

It is practically impossible today to plan a modernized home without a variety of the built-in features that can be easily and economically constructed.

Select Reputable Men for Repairs

Care Needed When Committing Credit for Construction Work

Your own judgment will tell you that you must invest wisely and thoughtfully—if you would reap the maximum in benefits from property improvements. Here are a few points to remember.

1. Select good workmen. You should personally know the contractor or workman who will handle your job or, if not, check his reputation for responsibility and skill. Probably the only effective safeguard as to price is the securing of competitive bids.
2. You should not pay for the work or sign a note covering the cost of the work without receiving a written guarantee. This caution applies to cases where the entire job is given to one or more contractors or subcontractors who furnish all the materials.

When a property owner buys materials direct from a dealer, and either does the work himself or hires his own labor, it is not customary for either the dealer or the manufacturer to give a guarantee. Therefore, protection in such cases must be secured by purchasing from reputable firms.

2. Recondition—in its best sense. No item of repair, alteration or improvement should be an attempt to conceal building defects which are more fundamental. If the work involves a large expenditure or major changes in a building—that is, if it involves alterations and new construction rather than mere repairs, it is wise to consult an architect or engineer. Your saving will be much greater than his fee, which may be included in the loan.

3. Consider the neighborhood and the character of the property to be improved. Costs and benefits should be weighed against the building's future and its surroundings. If your application is rejected because of un-

Danger Spots

1. Does rain reach your wall paper? Perhaps there are loose shingles. Perhaps there is broken or missing slate.
2. It may be the rafters that need inspection. Perhaps the frame of your house is resting on insecure supports. New foundation walls may be necessary.
3. Does four porch roof leak? Canvases or metal decks over porches and bay windows may need repainting, or painting.
4. The trouble may be flashings at some point on the roof or elsewhere.

Repair Work Is Aid to Everyone

Helps Property Values, Helps Community, Makes Life "Livable"

Your Family—Repairs, alterations or replacements which make your home more beautiful, more convenient and more livable, contribute naturally to "a more abundant life" for your entire family.

Your Business—A well-maintained store, apartment house, garage or factory, contributes to a well-run paying business. Convenient and sanitary surroundings attract new clients and customers and help retain old ones.

Your Pocketbook—Wise building improvement increases the selling value of your property. Timely repairs forestall more costly repairs later on. Now—while manufacturers, contractors, supply dealers, banks and other financial institutions are co-operating in the Better Housing Program—protection and improvement of your buildings means money in your pocket.

Your Employees—New plumbing, lighting and similar improvements increase the health, morale and efficiency of your workers. Necessary alterations or additions speed production—regardless of your business or profession—and increase your every-day efficiency.

Your Community—Improvement of your property indirectly benefits the whole community by employing men and creating a demand for materials. When you improve your home or business property, others are inspired to do likewise.

Homes Run Down During the Panic

Now Is the Time to Paint Up and Make General Repairs

For several years past, homes all over America have been steadily going down hill. Many property owners have been unable to pay for normal upkeep and repairs. A far greater number have delayed the larger improvements which mean better housing and better living.

You, yourself, are the best judge of whether your home would be more desirable with a new coat of paint, a new roof, additional plumbing, lighting fixtures or heating equipment. You know what would improve the appearance, rentability and efficiency of your own business property.

Now is the time to make those improvements. The national housing act was designed to help you improve your property and increase its value and usefulness. Through one of the simplest and most reasonable systems of financing ever devised, the act makes it possible for you to make delayed repairs and provide better surroundings for your family.

If you have cash for property improvements, cash payment is, of course, the best method. The favorable time is now. If it seems more convenient to pay for such work out of your regular income, now is the prudent time to borrow—either directly from your bank, building and loan association or other institution co-operating with the federal housing administration, or through your contractor or building supply dealer.

Here Is Financing Plan for Repairs

Private Credit to Handle Better Homes Program Entirely

The federal housing administration makes no loans to the public and cannot deal with distressed conditions. It insures loans made by private lending agencies for purposes of modernization of all types buildings, and later will insure mortgages made by such institutions upon new and existing one-to-four family residential buildings, and, under special conditions, upon lowest housing projects.

The home owners' loan corporation is authorized to refinance mortgages on distressed homes, that is, upon homes where mortgages and other obligations are in serious default. This corporation has established a reconditioning division and makes direct loans for modernization and repair, but only to owners upon whose homes it has already financed mortgages, or to owners of unencumbered property meeting the eligibility requirements of the corporation and who cannot receive financing from private lending agencies.

Federal emergency administration of public works—housing division; Housing corporation—The housing division is that unit of the public works administration charged with the development of a program of low-cost housing or slum clearance. It also makes loans to limited dividend corporations for such purposes. The emergency housing corporation is an auxiliary of the housing division, established to expedite the housing program. Neither of these agencies deal directly with individual ownership needs.

Federal home loan bank system does not lend to individuals. Federal home loan banks lend to their members, at present consisting of about 2700 building and loan associations, mutual savings banks and insurance companies, on the security of their mortgages as collateral and in a limited way without security.

Federal savings and loan associations, lend directly to home owners upon homes and combination home and business property, lending up to not exceeding 75 per centum of the value of such properties located within fifty miles of their offices on loans amortized over not less than five nor twenty years.

Modernized Store Helps the Trade

An Inviting Entrance and Good Display Space Are Vital

Is it comfortable, handsome, convenient?

1. Are the entrances inviting? A modernized store front, a revolving door, revised display space, might greatly increase the attractiveness of your building. Consider the possibilities of natural and cut stone, marble, enameled brick, the new metals, etc. If appearance is improved, value and greater rentability are likely to follow.
2. Lobbies give first impressions. If your foyer is dark and unattractive, brighten it with new wainscoting, paint, resurfaced or tiled floors and up-to-date light fixtures.
3. Office space is made modern with repaired plaster, paint, refinished floors, new wardrobes and washstands, new and simple woodwork.
4. Customers, clients and tenants are inclined to pay more for your product—tangible or intangible—if your property is attractive, comfortable and convenient. Check the plumbing and paint—the heating and ventilation—the stairs and elevators. The proper improvements inside and out, will convert your building into an efficient salesman for you.

Here's the Way to Start Program

Better Housing Drive Opens Up New Credit for Construction

1. You may have certain property improvements already in mind—the small investments that pay large dividends in better living. Perhaps it's light switches, paint, plumbing, plaster or a complete remodeling job. In addition to the items you may have planned already, check your property against the list of repairs, alterations and improvements suggested in here.
2. Decide what improvements you can afford to make now—or at least the improvements you cannot afford to neglect any longer.
3. Call a contractor, or—if it's an important job—an architect. Or get

Before and After Modernization

These illustrations show how a home, run-down in appearance can be completely transformed into an attractive, livable dwelling with a little modernization operation.

in touch with your local better housing committee of there is one in your community. Any of these individuals or agencies co-operating with the federal housing administration will gladly estimate the cost.

4. Then comes the question. How shall I pay for these improvements? If you have the cash—cash is the ideal way to pay.

But if you should find it more convenient to pay out of your regular income—the investment is a sound one, and now is the prudent time to go ahead. The Better Housing Program has oiled the machinery of credit so that you may pay easily and conveniently for property improvements made at once.

Your contractor or supply dealer is in a position to co-operate. Or you may arrange directly for a low-cost, long-payment loan with your own local banks, building and loan association or other financial institution co-operating with the government. The way has been smoothed—the future of your property is up to you.

4 Plead Guilty to Stolen Bond Sale

Fifth Fights Government Investigation at Jonesboro, Ark.

JONESBORO, Ark.—Another chapter in an amazing story of a group of "hot" bond dealers who flew their $166,000 loot to Arkansas by airplane to dispose of it through various connections in the tri-state area was written in federal court here Monday.

Four men pleaded guilty to two counts, each charging the handling and disposing of securities stolen from the United States mails.

A fifth man, C. B. Barnett, Jonesboro financier, filed a demurrer, seeking dismissal of the charges against him on the grounds that the indictment is faulty and does not state an actual offense.

Those who pleaded guilty were Jay H. Myers, Black Rock banker and former representative from Lawrence county; J. L. McKamey, former postmaster at Imboden; John K. Gibson, a planter at Lauratown, and Sam Labow, a Chicago man who says he is a druggist.

A hearing on the motion filed by Barnett probably will be held this week before Judge John E. Martineau.

Four other men will be arraigned by federal authorities on similar charges. They are G. L. Sanford, alias L. N. McCoy, who is fighting extradition from Jackson, Miss.; Mortimer Hunt, alias Harry Greenberg, who is fighting extradition from New York city; and Arthur G. Sauls and Everett Ham, both held at Jackson, Miss., by federal authorities. Sauls and Ham were arrested at Jackson Saturday by federal authorities. Both are alleged to have participated in the disposal of $166,000 worth of stolen securities, of which $24,000 were taken from the United States mails.

"My husband is the most stubborn man in the world. Sometimes I think I shall have to get a divorce."

"What's happened now?"

"Well, we had an engagement to meet in front of the postoffice at 4 o'clock. It was 5:30 when I got there and he won't admit that the rest he got while he was waiting did him good."

Questions and Answers About Hope's Better Homes Drive

Here Is Outline of the Federally-Sponsored Move to Enlarge Private Credit

1. Who may apply? Any property owner, individual, partnership or corporation, with a regular income from salary, commission, business or other assured source. It is not necessary to be a depositor in the financial institution consulted.

2. To whom do I apply? To any National Bank, State Bank or Trust Company, Savings Bank, Industrial Bank, Building and Loan Association or Finance Company approved by the federal housing administration; or to a contractor or building supply dealer.

3. Do I borrow money from the government? No.

4. How much may I apply for? From $100 to $2000, depending on your income, for improvements on any one property. A like amount in connection with one more than five properties ($2000 maximum on each). Approval by the federal housing administration, Washington, D. C., must be secured by the lender in advance for loans on more than five properties.

5. How long may notes run? For any number of months from one to five years—at the discretion of the financial institution.

6. May I take the maximum time allowed to pay back any size loan? The object is to arrange the time so that the loan is repaid at the earliest date consistent with the income of the borrower. No wise borrower will want to be over-extended. No careful banker will allow the maximum time if it is not necessary—nor will he approve a time arrangement which bears too heavily on the property owner's income.

7. What security is required? Only that you have an adequate regular income and a good credit record in your community.

8. What assurance need I give? (a) That you own the property. (Lessees under "repairing leases" may qualify under special circumstances which the local lending institutions can explain.)

(b) That the annual income of the borrower is at least five times the annual payments on the note.

(c) That your mortgage, if any is in such standing that the lender is justified in making the loan.

(d) That you will use the proceeds solely for property improvement.

9. What signatures are required? Signature of the property owner; and (except in special cases) if the owner is an individual and is married, also signature of wife or husband. No other co-signers or endorsers are required.

10. Do I make any "down payment"? No.

11. What is the cost of this credit? The financial institution may not collect as interest and (or discount) and/or fee of any kind, a total charge in excess of an amount equivalent to $5 discount per $100 of a one-year note, payable in monthly installments. For example: If you need $285 for housing improvements, you might sign a note for $300 payable in 12 equal monthly installments. In this case the note would not bear interest, because the maximum charge permitted (5%) would be included in the face of the note.

If you borrow a larger amount or if you repay in equal monthly installments extending beyond one year—from 13 months to five years—the total charge permitted would be at a proportionate rate.

12. Do I pay any other charge? No. 13. How does this cost compare? Compared with ordinary 60 or 90-day bank loans, it is higher. Compared with the same type of loans payable in monthly installments, it is much lower than heretofore available. The reduced cost is made possible because of the government credit insurance to the financial institution.

This type of loan makes it possible for you to spread the payments over a long period. You do not have to give a mortgage. You need not have friends or others sign your note, and you reap the benefits of the improvements now.

It's the Interior That Is Lived in

Plaster and Floors Unlikely When in Need of Repair

1. Is plaster spotted and cracked on walls and ceilings? Defective lath should be replaced—and damaged plaster patched.

2. Are floors uneven? Perhaps there are loose or broken boards in the flooring which need attention. New floors may be laid over worn ones—or floors may be refinished.

3. Do stairs, railings and spindles need repairing? How about a disappearing or permanent stair to the attic?

4. Are moldings and woodwork old-fashioned—too elaborate? They can be replaced by simple, well-designed trim.

5. Is your kitchen modern? Its everyday usefulness might be greatly increased by a new sink and built-in dishwasher, enough cupboard space, built-in cooking and refrigeration equipment, and adequate wiring outlets.

6. How about the bathroom? Does it need new wall covering, plumbing, new paint, new fixtures? Would an additional bathroom mean greater convenience?

7. New built-in cabinets and cupboards mean additional convenience. Consider the possibilities of a broom closet, bookcases, wardrobes, a linen closet, corner-cupboards for the dining room—or the convenience and value of automatic door closers, new locks and attractive hardware.

8. Crowded for room? Partitions and walls may be changed to make larger, better-shaped, or additional rooms. Boards, wall board, lath and plaster are useful in making rooms from wasted space in basement and attic.

9. Is the attic too hot for habitation? It can be ventilated by louvers or insulated against heat and cold. Ventilating fans may be installed.

7 Billion Total on Federal Loans

Does Not Include "Relief" Bill—Borrowers Are Paying Off

Copyright Associated Press

WASHINGTON — (AP) — New Deal money lending reached a point Sunday where nearly seven billion dollars was owed to the federal government.

A survey of the five principal emergency credit agencies showed loans outstanding to public and private enterprises aggregated $6,946,069,897. And only the future could determine definitely when the flow of money would stop.

As security Uncle Sam held everything from corn in cribs and mortgages on individual homes to bank and railroad bonds. The interest covered a range from four to six per cent and the obligations spread over terms from six months to 30 years.

The official expectation was that most of the money would be recovered, with interest at least paying the administrative costs of the lending job.

The total, however, did not include relief expenditures, which the government classes as "irrecoverable loans," nor money spent on strictly federal projects designed to create employment.

In the words of W. I. Myers, governor of the Farm Credit Administration: "The true test of any credit system isn't in putting the money out. It's in getting it back."

New York Police to Beat Up Thugs

"Strong Arm" Methods Will Be Used Against Professionals

NEW YORK — (AP) — Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine declared himself Monday for a policy of "marking and muzzing up" all known criminals who are arrested.

He told 200 detectives at the police line-up to spread the word among the force that he wanted criminals so beaten they would leave the city rather than face arrest.

"I don't want these men coming in here looking as if they had just left a barber chair," the commissioner declared.

payments were being made brought expressions of pleasure from some officials charged with placing government loans.

Only recently Reconstruction Corporation officials made a public plea to private borrowers not to be in too great a hurry to liquidate their indebtedness to the government. Their point was that the money should be used so as to create more demand for goods and labor.

The RFC had been repaid more than two and a quarter billion dollars, or almost half of the entire four and a half billion it had loaned outside of advances to government agencies and for relief since it began functioning in February, 1932.

4 Plead Guilty to Stolen Bond Sale

Fifth Fights Government Investigation at Jonesboro, Ark.

JONESBORO, Ark.—Another chapter in an amazing story of a group of "hot" bond dealers who flew their $166,000 loot to Arkansas by airplane to dispose of it through various connections in the tri-state area was written in federal court here Monday.

Four men pleaded guilty to two counts, each charging the handling and disposing of securities stolen from the United States mails.

A fifth man, C. B. Barnett, Jonesboro financier, filed a demurrer, seeking dismissal of the charges against him on the grounds that the indictment is faulty and does not state an actual offense.

Those who pleaded guilty were Jay H. Myers, Black Rock banker and former representative from Lawrence county; J. L. McKamey, former postmaster at Imboden; John K. Gibson, a planter at Lauratown, and Sam Labow, a Chicago man who says he is a druggist.

A hearing on the motion filed by Barnett probably will be held this week before Judge John E. Martineau.

Four other men will be arraigned by federal authorities on similar charges. They are G. L. Sanford, alias L. N. McCoy, who is fighting extradition from Jackson, Miss.; Mortimer Hunt, alias Harry Greenberg, who is fighting extradition from New York city; and Arthur G. Sauls and Everett Ham, both held at Jackson, Miss., by federal authorities. Sauls and Ham were arrested at Jackson Saturday by federal authorities. Both are alleged to have participated in the disposal of $166,000 worth of stolen securities, of which $24,000 were taken from the United States mails.

"My husband is the most stubborn man in the world. Sometimes I think I shall have to get a divorce."

"What's happened now?"

"Well, we had an engagement to meet in front of the postoffice at 4 o'clock. It was 5:30 when I got there and he won't admit that the rest he got while he was waiting did him good."

Questions and Answers About Hope's Better Homes Drive

Here Is Outline of the Federally-Sponsored Move to Enlarge Private Credit

1. Who may apply? Any property owner, individual, partnership or corporation, with a regular income from salary, commission, business or other assured source. It is not necessary to be a depositor in the financial institution consulted.

2. To whom do I apply? To any National Bank, State Bank or Trust Company, Savings Bank, Industrial Bank, Building and Loan Association or Finance Company approved by the federal housing administration; or to a contractor or building supply dealer.

3. Do I borrow money from the government? No.

4. How much may I apply for? From $100 to $2000, depending on your income, for improvements on any one property. A like amount in connection with one more than five properties ($2000 maximum on each). Approval by the federal housing administration, Washington, D. C., must be secured by the lender in advance for loans on more than five properties.

5. How long may notes run? For any number of months from one to five years—at the discretion of the financial institution.

6. May I take the maximum time allowed to pay back any size loan? The object is to arrange the time so that the loan is repaid at the earliest date consistent with the income of the borrower. No wise borrower will want to be over-extended. No careful banker will allow the maximum time if it is not necessary—nor will he approve a time arrangement which bears too heavily on the property owner's income.

7. What security is required? Only that you have an adequate regular income and a good credit record in your community.

8. What assurance need I give? (a) That you own the property. (Lessees under "repairing leases" may qualify under special circumstances which the local lending institutions can explain.)

(b) That the annual income of the borrower is at least five times the annual payments on the note.

(c) That your mortgage, if any is in such standing that the lender is justified in making the loan.

(d) That you will use the proceeds solely for property improvement.

9. What signatures are required? Signature of the property owner; and (except in special cases) if the owner is an individual and is married, also signature of wife or husband. No other co-signers or endorsers are required.

10. Do I make any "down payment"? No.

11. What is the cost of this credit? The financial institution may not collect as interest and (or discount) and/or fee of any kind, a total charge in excess of an amount equivalent to $5 discount per $100 of a one-year note, payable in monthly installments. For example: If you need $285 for housing improvements, you might sign a note for $300 payable in 12 equal monthly installments. In this case the note would not bear interest, because the maximum charge permitted (5%) would be included in the face of the note.

If you borrow a larger amount or if you repay in equal monthly installments extending beyond one year—from 13 months to five years—the total charge permitted would be at a proportionate rate.

12. Do I pay any other charge? No. 13. How does this cost compare? Compared with ordinary 60 or 90-day bank loans, it is higher. Compared with the same type of loans payable in monthly installments, it is much lower than heretofore available. The reduced cost is made possible because of the government credit insurance to the financial institution.

This type of loan makes it possible for you to spread the payments over a long period. You do not have to give a mortgage. You need not have friends or others sign your note, and you reap the benefits of the improvements now.

14. How do I pay the note? By making regular, equal, monthly payments (seasonal payments for farmers and others with seasonal income) until the note is paid in full.

15. May the owner of any kind of property apply? Applications will be considered for credit to improve one-family, two-family or other residences; apartment buildings, stores, office buildings, factories, warehouses, farm buildings.

16. Must I use specified building material? No, you are investing your own money (even though borrowed) in Better Housing. There will be no restrictions on your rights as an owner to use such materials and employ such methods of construction as you may desire—provided they meet the approval of the lending agency.

17. May I borrow to buy housing equipment? Yes, if the equipment is an integral part of the improved building. Removable furniture is not permitted under terms of your loan. Refrigerators, stoves, etc., are permitted, if built-in.

18. Where do I make payments? The regular installment payments will be made in person at the place of business of the financial institution, or by mail, or as otherwise arranged. No payment shall be made to any government office or organization.

19. Should I wait until I can spend $100? No. The object of the Better Housing Program is better living. The present time is favorable. If you can pay cash for repairs, alterations and improvements that will cost less than $100—pay cash and act now.

20. What if I am late in making payments? The owner must not permit his payments to fall in arrears. Should a payment be more than 15 days late, the financial institution's expense, caused thereby, may be reimbursed in part at the rate of not more than five cents per dollar for each payment in arrears. Persistent delinquency will make it necessary for the financial institution to take proper steps to affect collection in full.
